Birds, Bears, and Bugs Oh My!

Furry and feathery creatures often inhabit Ojito de San Antonio due to the rich and diverse natural resources on the property including natural springs, fruit trees and a variety of forest types. A presentation led by Chris Modelski from the Sandia Mountain Natural History Center will delve into the unique facts and characteristics of these creatures while participants look for evidence of their activity by hunting for tracks and scat. This event is FREE, but space is limited.

This workshop is developed in partnership with the Sandia Mountain Natural History Center: www.nmnaturalhistory.org/smhnc.
